

Declaration of Originality

This document must contain the original signature of the author(s) and has to be enclosed with every article published in Contemporary Southeastern Europe.

Herewith I/we<sup>1</sup> confirm that the article submitted to Contemporary Southeastern Europe with the title is an original work of mine/ours. The article named above can be tested electronically for plagiarism. I/We confirm that I/we have respected ethical standards of academia and therefore completely avoided any form of cheating, plagiarism, self-plagiarism, dishonesty or source vagueness. Thus, exclusively, I/we carry all legal and ethical responsibility for the above named article. I/we also carry the exclusive legal and ethical responsibility considering the copyrights of the materials used for the above named article (pictures, tables etc.). I/we have bilaterally cleared in written form all questions considering copyrights of used material with the entitled person(s), institution, or copyright holder before the article's submission to Contemporary Southeastern Europe. The author will be required to have copies of permissions and details of the correct copyright acknowledgement. Contemporary Southeastern Europe is not a party in this bilateral relation and takes no legal and ethical responsibility in the case of a possible conflict of interest between me/us and the copyright holder(s).

---

---

I/We guarantee that the above named article has not been published in any other format prior to its publication in Contemporary Southeastern Europe. In the case of a subsequent publication of the same or modified article, I/we will disclose that the article was firstly published in Contemporary Southeastern Europe.

I/We fully accept the copyright policy of Contemporary Southeastern Europe as defined at <http://www.contemporarysee.org/en/node/18>

Name

---

---

---

---

Author(s) hand signatures:

---

---

---

---

Place

---

Date

---

---

<sup>1</sup> In the case of co-authored articles the signatures of all authors are needed.